DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Violet Fike House stands at the foot of a slight rise to the west, north of a spring. Two 1½-story, gable-roofed sections, a plank house to the north and a plank or frame addition to the south, compose the dwelling. A one-story, five-bay-long vertical-plank shed stands north of the house.

The northern house was moved about 90 years ago from a location at the end of the lane on Glade road. The narrow east gable end includes two bays, while the longer north side contains a single bay. The gable roof runs east-west. The one-bay -square addition is placed perpendicular to the original section. Shed additions were built to the north and south.

Entrances appear in the east end of the original block and the south side of the addition. Plain flat boards frame the windows, the majority of which contain 3/1 sash. The house stands on a stone foundation. A small cellar underpins the addition. Tarpaper covers the roof. A variety of materials-tarpaper, German siding, and asphalt-sheathe the walls.

The small, asphalt-covered springhouse stands on a stone foundation. 2/2/ windows light the work shed.
